

Falls County Community Plan 2023

What Is a Community Plan?

This plan is formally known as the Falls County Criminal Justice Community Plan, the purpose of which is to identify gaps in services regarding criminal justice issues. The Criminal Justice Division of the Governor’s Office (CJD) requires that each county in Texas have a Criminal Justice Community Plan.

The document that is represented here reflects the efforts of many in Falls County that are concerned with assuring that any gaps in services that are identified are closed in a way that will both solve the problem and provide as great a benefit to the community as possible. It is with the grateful acknowledgment that the names of those involved in the process of developing this plan are listed on the following pages under “Community Planning Team”.

Though the final draft of this plan was completed in August 2023 this is a work in progress. As new criminal justice goals are identified, the constituency of the planning team and priorities in the plan are subject to change. Such updates may be reported to the Falls County Community Planning Coordinator throughout the year, and the plan amended accordingly.

If you are reading this plan and have not been involved in its development, you are invited to join in this ongoing effort. Any questions you may have may be addressed to the Criminal Justice Program of the Heart of Texas Council of Governments. Contact information is provided on page 34 of this document.

The Falls County Commissioner’s Court supports the concept of community planning by providing staff support and resources for the development and implementation of the Falls County Community Plan. Additionally, the Commissioner’s Court, Regional Criminal Justice Advisory Committee (CJAC), and the Heart of Texas Governing Board (Executive Committee) support grant applications from county departments as well as community organizations that address gaps in services identified in the Community Plan.

Brief Description and History of Falls County:

Falls County, a rectangle of 765 square miles located in Central Texas near Waco and Temple, was established in 1850 and named for the Falls on the Brazos River. The county's approximately 17,500 citizens are chiefly tied to the land with 55% of the total county economy dependent on agriculture. The remaining 45% of the economy is derived primarily from local and county governments, correctional institutions, educational institutions, nursing homes, hospitals, small businesses, and independent manufacturers.

Texas Cooperative Extension in Falls County reaches out to adults and youth, males, and females of all ethnic backgrounds to help individuals and families improve their lives, properties, economic status, and self-sufficiency. By conducting seminars, workshops, demonstrations, and camps, County Extension Agents provide educational tools and information to the diverse peoples of Falls County to better manage their farms, ranches, businesses, health, animals, financial security, and family relationships. Working through and with volunteers, Agents extend their knowledge and expertise into every corner and village in the county.

Identification of Community Problems

General Public Safety Needs and Issues

Crime is a complex and multifaceted problem, and crime control requires the constant and coordinated efforts of a wide range of public and private agencies. County-wide criminal justice planning is an essential precursor to the effective coordination of all varieties of crime amelioration activities in the county. The agencies that compose the Falls County criminal justice system jointly strive to enforce lawful standards of conduct, protect individuals and communities, assist victims, improve institutional capabilities, and engage the community and its citizens in crime prevention while preserving individual civil liberties and protecting basic human rights.

It is necessary to strive toward these goals by helping to facilitate the collaboration of community groups, law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, courts, and correctional agencies throughout the County. A broad approach to defining the crime problem and designing methods for its control has been identified as a priority. Issues related to crime have been studied and analyzed on a continuum from the overall social environment to post-crime responses, including community structure and dynamics, crime prevention, early intervention, and various types of criminal and juvenile justice agency responses. Within these parameters, this planning process develops, implements, and refines the community criminal justice plan to help meet the emerging needs of Falls County. The goal of this planning process is to achieve a significant reduction in the frequency and severity of crime to facilitate a sense of pride, health, and safety in all our communities by:

- Promoting the planning and implementation of comprehensive strategies to prevent and control crime in general and violence in particular, throughout the community
- Identifying philosophical principles that will promote the participation of law enforcement, judiciary, prosecution, corrections, victims, treatment providers, educators, media, businesses, and citizens throughout the community in the development of strategies to prevent, reduce and control crime and violence in the community.
- Promoting the fairness, effectiveness, and efficiency of all segments of the criminal and juvenile justice system

PREVENTION AND INTERVENTION

The building of assets in youth and the community is an important component of a community plan. Therefore, prevention issues must take precedence over those based on incarceration and deterrence if the long-term impact of crime control spending is to be maximized. Nonetheless, the control of known delinquents who present a clear threat to public safety must also remain an important strategy.

In each of the areas below, problems are identified and data is included that supports both the existence and severity of the problems as they are found in Falls County. Below is a discussion of the problems, how the problems are being addressed, and strategically how responses to these community problems could be improved. In some identified problem areas, there is no current data to support them, due to recent program funding cuts. The data collection will be added to the plan as the problem area statistics become available throughout the year.

Juvenile Issues (listed in order of priority, greatest need first)

1. Referrals for Treatment

- a. Limited resources if the juvenile doesn't qualify for mental health services.
- b. Residential for mental health and substance abuse
- c. Long-term
- d. Short-term

Recommendations:

- Support programs that will allow treatment facilities to operate and support beds for in-house treatment. Currently, there are waiting lists.
- Funding of additional staff and mental health resources to be supported as well as resources for those individuals that do not qualify for mental health services. Recent mandated state laws limit person(s) that qualify for services under Behavioral Health Services.
- Need for Medicaid private practitioner.
- Local counselor needed for court-mandated counseling.

Resources:

- Heart of Texas Council on Alcohol and Drug Addiction (HOTCADA)

2. Lack of role models/mentors for juveniles as well as lack of motivating factors for youth

Data Collection:

- Role models not engaged in community
 - Limited parental involvement – the majority of single-parent families
 - Generational issues – grandparents raising grandchildren
 - No recreational/athletic facilities
 - Limited after-school programs
 - Limited career/education exploration for the general population – There is a PACES program; however, not all youth are eligible to participate.

Recommendations:

- Continued support for funding agencies offering services
- Violence prevention/parenting classes
 - Start a “survivors” group for children.
 - Fatherhood Initiative – parent support group
- Mentorship programs

Resources:

- MCYC offers programs to children of incarcerated parents
- PACES offers counseling, case management, and mentoring programs to youth.
- Faith, Hope, and Charity.

- Communities in Schools (CIS)
- After-school programs at Rosebud Lott and Chilton ISDs
- Family Abuse Center

3. Delinquent behavior put students' education at risk.

Truancy is rated as a minor juvenile crime and is often the least enforced in most Falls County communities. There is substantial evidence that youth who become truant will eventually drop out of school and put themselves at high risk of becoming disadvantaged unproductive citizens. The linkages of truancy and tobacco, alcohol, and other substance abuse items can lead to other chronic delinquencies, and possibly foster other violent behaviors. Truancy is the first sign of youth in trouble. Coupled with academic failure, these two indicators may be the initial signs that a young person is overwhelmed with life and is entertaining the ghastly decision to drop out of school. For example, data from the Department of Education/National Center for Education Statistics shows over the past decade, the number of high school students choosing to leave school without a diploma was between 347,000 and 544,000. National dropout rates for 16 to 22-year-olds were reported at 11% (The Condition of Education 2022, National Center for Education Statistics.) Marlin ISD enrollment: Pre-K through 5th grade - 588 students; 6th through 8th - 227 students; 9 through 12- 288 students. The student body is just under 1,000.

Problem:

Our students are not internalizing basic concepts of learning between head start, pre-K, and elementary grades. Students who are placed instead of being promoted to the next grade level find themselves faced with even greater challenges. Academic, as well as cognitive weakness at an early age becomes a factor in the high percentage of our high school dropouts and drastically affects how our young people view their future.

- Student needs are not identified promptly.
- Young people's life outcomes are seriously diminished.
- Future economic security of the target area is jeopardized.
- Increased number of individuals with low educational attainment levels.
- Lack of resources for academic, intervention, and prevention services and community support at an early age.

Problem:

Our schools are generally understaffed in student-teacher and student-counselor ratio. Our pre-K and elementary level students are the most affected and are the most critical age for positive socialization instructions. Many of our youth who fall through the cracks have low self-esteem and difficulty with conflict resolution, and their cries for help are not wholly considered. These beginners are stereotyped and labeled as tattlers and troublemakers. They soon become negatively reinforced by being placed on punishment for ultimately not having the ability to socially adjust within the classroom setting. The possibility of our children's needs remaining unidentified increases, and opportunities to provide the needed intervention to help our students have success in life are missed. This renders our educational system impotent to form healthy relationships with students and their parents. Unidentified needs present barriers for our teacher/counselor that fosters a non-caring attitude as well as distrust within the student-teacher-counselor connection.

- Special needs of youth unidentified, in particular, anger and depression issues.
- Social barriers and ineffective intervention/prevention treatment strategies.
- Individual needs are not addressed effectively and in a timely manner.
- Risk factors affecting cognitive abilities in children are not identified promptly
- Limited focus on the importance of education and its life-long impact at the elementary, as well as the middle and junior high-grade levels.
- Lack of resources in the community to provide programs and services to stimulate students' potential for success in life.

Problem:

Our high school building presents safety issues for staff as well as students.

- High school structure needs an upgrade to enhance student and staff safety.
- Security system is inadequate
- Staff has no intercommunication devices

As of November 2016, the camera system is being updated. All classrooms have phones. Drills are conducted regularly.

Problem:

Parents of younger children do not have the parenting skills and are challenged in providing academic support for their school-age children. Many parents are under-educated and work multiple jobs to support their families. Mental health issues are not properly identified and addressed. Many families are single-parent households who have financial struggles and are most times unable to give parental presence showing support for school functions and become stressed when they are called away from their employment to address behavior issues at school. Available options of programs and services for esteem building and youth empowerment are limited and poorly advertised. Available services provided by outside sources are scheduled on limited days with hours of operation.

- Parents lack parenting skills and are limited in providing academic support.
- A Limited number of parents engaged in the support of academics, school functions, and ultimately student potential.
- Students lack a sense of value and responsibility of a high school education and a sense of community to become productive citizens.
- Lack of communication and collaboration between community service providers and referrals
- Restricted access to services and programs resulting from the lack of communication.
- Technology divides due to a lack of understanding and familiarity with computers and other forms of technology tools.
- Community has limited youth and young adult development programs engaged to support school-aged students.
- Lack of resources available to support community initiatives for mentorships and youth and young adult development and apprenticeship programs.

Problem:

Youth/teens/young adults are at risk for a community that is not fully engaged in physical and social development and support. Our society presents an ethnic and racial disparity that fosters a detachment of our youth from their heritage.

- Community void of crime amelioration activities.
- Community void of citizens having a sense of neighborhood unity and belongingness.
- Community void of relevant programs designed specifically for ethnic and cultural awareness.
- Community void of a sense of ownership for the success and maintenance of the relevant programs.
- Population of people who do not have ways and means to advance their quality of life opening up vulnerable pathways that can lead youth to trouble.

Problem:

Youth/teens/young adults (15 – 21 years) in our community are handicapped with a criminal record from occurrences that could be supervised in the community without jeopardizing public safety. Keeping lower-risk offenses out of the system can benefit our community and greatly improve life outcomes and reduce the chance of them coming in contact with the system. Our court systems need viable options for dealing with low-risk repeat offenders. Students are trapped by criminal records at an early age making themselves ineligible for employment and financial aid. Unemployable teens place a burden on the parents as well as the community to support this soon-to-be adult citizen. This places continual strain on our already weakened economy

- Unsupervised youth at risk
- Teens and young adults hanging out on Main Street... no place to go. No or limited community activities outside of the school setting to channel youth energy.
- No or limited structured environments specifically designed for youth/teens/young adult activities.
- Substance usage, abuse, and sells.
- Vandalism; Little or no self-respect or respect for authority
- Promiscuous sexual activity and sexually transmitted diseases
- Teenage pregnancy, single parents' households
- Low self-confidence and esteem
- Fighting and bullying
- Curfew violations, truancy, dropouts
- Limited awareness and access to programs and services for youth and teen needs
- Stereotyping of troubled youth and teens
- No easily accessible and coordinated programs for families.
- Services are often provided in a piecemeal fashion or they address only a fragment of the problem.
- Instances of delinquency, violence, and persistent misbehaviors in children, youth, and teens continue to increase.

Need:

- To build and maintain a collaboration of community stakeholders to do strategic planning that resonates with the core issues and significantly address our problems for change.
- Platforms for effective communication between school, family, and the community at large to discuss issues of school attendance, community stimulus, and academic success.
- Initiatives that invest in our youth and young adult leadership development.
- Teacher–counselor and school staff to have a higher level of sensitivity for early evaluations in all domains (psychological, academic, physical, family, social, economic, mental health/substance abuse) of pre-K, elementary, youth, and teens at-risk.
- Full range of services and programs to support parents with preschool and school-age children.
- Intervention and parenting classes for parents to identify and obtain skills to address esteem and delinquency issues.
- Awareness of available programs and services specifically for individual and family access to local counseling services to assess and assist with delinquency issues.
- Developed and implemented diversion programs and aftercare treatment services. In particular, programs that allow time for one-on-one attention and instructions for those students with learning and behavior issues.
- Strategies that include intensive service plan coordination as well as a “wrap around” approach that targets all domains of:
 - Youth involved in the juvenile justice system.
 - Youth are involved in substance abuse, particularly tobacco and alcohol.
 - Youth experiencing co-occurring mental health and substance abuse disorders.
 - Youth experiencing fear, anger, mental health abuse, and disorders.
 - Youth attending alternative learning environments
 - Community base alternatives for repeat offenders.

- Early intervention and prevention programs to build relationships with law enforcement in the community targeting youth at all levels.
- Programs and activities for youth and teens not involved in the juvenile justice system.
- A community teen center in the community located in a safe area for teens to take ownership and hang out during non-school hours. Centers with evening hours.
- Facilities in the community that allow for physical stimulation such as swimming, skating, and bowling. Supervised, constructive recreation in the community for youth-teens involvement.
- Specifically tailored activities that allow for intellectual stimulation and creative thinking such as Arts and crafts.
- The school, family, and community at large work together to tighten communication regarding the importance of school attendance, community stimulus, academic success, and graduation.

Recommendations:

- Community stakeholders collaborate and intentionally engage by giving support for funding sources to allow for intervention, prevention, treatment, and follow-up care for juveniles at risk for mental health, drug use, and all abuse issues.
- Support community recreation facilities that can enhance youth/ teen/ young adults' leadership development.
- Explore the feasibility of Resource officers and campus police collaborating with Truant officers in the school district.
- Provide funded education and training via funded programs for youth/teens to deter delinquent behavior such as Drop Out Prevention programs, First Time Offender programs, Teen Court, Drug Court, DARE programs, G.R.E.A.T. programs, and other types of programs.
- Support projects designed for offenders of non-violence issues and traffic violations
- Misdemeanor drug cases and fighting with domestic violence charges refer to 1st Offender and Pre-trial Diversion programs.
- Educate parents via court-ordered and non-court-ordered parenting classes.
- Expand stay-in-school, after-school, and school appreciation activities.
- Provide funded prevention programs addressing coping skills, social competency skills, and enhancement of personal esteem, sex education and abstinent programs, responsibility, and respect for self and others.
- Initiate, support, and continue programs that reduce risk factors associated with delinquency and strengthen protective factors that prevent such behavior.
- Enhance the availability of services, both inpatient and outpatient for children and adolescents who have a co-occurring substance abuse disorder.
- Develop mechanisms for improving communication and collaboration among providers who serve juvenile offenders.
- Develop a tracking system to follow a child through juvenile justice, mental health, and /or substance abuse treatment programs.
- Raise awareness among policymakers of funding needs to develop new services or enhance existing services.
- Educate the general public about the behavioral health needs of children and adolescents.
- Programs addressing Anger Management for children and adolescents.
- Funded programs addressing esteem building, goal setting, and career pursuits for children and adolescents.
- Funded programs providing intellectual stimulation of the Arts and cultural awareness.
- Support initiatives that provide exposure trips for life experiences.

- Expose youth to the value of pursuing higher education and career opportunities via college tours and exposure trips for student inspiration and motivation.
- Provide incentive programs for academics such as dual credit college courses.
- Provide information to youth and parents regarding financial assistance for pursuing advanced training or apprenticeship opportunities or education.

4. First Offenders Program

This program is a delinquency prevention program that both parents and children are involved in. Recommendations:

- Support programs that will allow for aftercare services that provide extended support, treatment, and prevention.
- Counseling services are limited due to juvenile and/or family members having to travel out of the area to receive counseling. Support for a local resource is available more than just on-call basis.

3. Primary Prevention for Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault

Data Collection:

- Current domestic violence and sexual assault resources are overloaded. The solution is either to increase funding for these resources or prevent such violence from occurring in the first place.
- Children who grow up in homes with domestic violence are more likely to become abusers or victims of domestic violence themselves when they grow up.
- According to the 2020 Crime in Texas Report, the total number of Texas family violence incidents in 2020 was 213,875. This represented an
- 8.6% increase when compared to 2019. These incidents involved 231,029 victims (an increase of 9.2% from 2019) and 224,792 offenders (an increase of 9.0% from 2019).

Criminal Justice Issues (listed in order of priority, greatest need first)

1. Substance Abuse

In recent years the overall crime rate has decreased; however, studies show that a record number of crimes being committed today are driven by drugs and/or alcohol. Drug-driven crimes can be defined as an offense committed for the sole purpose of obtaining monies for the purchase of illegal substances or the sale of such substances.

In a study conducted by the Department of Justice – Bureau of Statistics, 61,000 convicted prisoners reported that their offenses were committed to obtain money for drugs. The study also revealed that of 12,658 homicides committed, 4.5% of the homicides were related to narcotics. Since the mid-1980s, almost every state and federal court system has experienced an overload of drug offenses on its dockets.

The high recidivism rates associated with drug-related offenses have proven that prosecution and incarceration alone will not break the cycle of recurrence of drug-related offenses. Based on the belief that drug abuse treatment is demonstrably more effective in reducing both drug addiction and drug-related crime, jurisdictions developed an alternative approach to the traditional adjudication process.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and TXDOT, there was one alcohol-related fatality in Falls County in 2021. In the state of Texas in 2021, there were 737 total alcohol-related fatalities.

Recommendations:

- Pursue funding streams and resources that offer local support groups, prevention, and treatment. Support Drug/Alcohol court Programs with mandatory participation.
- Medically supervised alcohol detoxification services for offenders suffering from acute alcohol abuse
- Affordable residential and supportive outpatient services for offenders needing longer-term care.
- Employee Assistance Programs (EAP) that provide affordable and appropriate treatment services for employees with alcohol problems
- Supervision of all DWI offenders who are required by law to have an ignition interlock
- Assign assistant district attorney to alleviate caseload.
- Case management services for ex-offenders

2. Insufficient Funding for Law Enforcement, Fire Departments, and Court Personnel

Significant pressures are being placed on the Justice Information Systems, resulting from the post-September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center. Information-sharing and new technologies are emphasized at all levels of federal, state, and local government. Compounding the problem, these pressures are being placed on systems that are old, have limited functionality, and lack the flexibility to address new functional or technical requirements.

Texas counties are striving to improve their Justice Information Systems (JIS) and adopt a new generation of systems referred to as Integrated Justice Systems (IJS). This integration occurs at two levels:

1. A comprehensive system architecture that serves the needs of all justice-related and law enforcement agencies within a county government.
2. The ability to integrate a county's justice information with other governments, including other local, state, and federal agencies within that county. A single data entry into a county's IJS system will enable the information to be made available to all agencies within the county boundaries, as well as state and federal government justice agencies.

For example, a police officer making a traffic stop could have immediate access to the vehicle registration data, and determine if the driver has outstanding warrants within the county, in another city, or by state and federal agencies.

Information systems operated by Texas justice agencies have been proprietary and incapable of linking and exchanging information; consequently, the justice community must address new strategies to deliver effective and efficient information-related services throughout the State of Texas. During the past year, federal and state agencies, urban counties, rural counties, and municipalities from across Texas have been discussing the need to collaborate on the development of an integrated justice information system. Although justice agencies require the same information, they have historically focused on capturing only that information necessary for their own processes and legacy systems.

Although Falls County government and the majority of its communities have justice information management systems, Falls County is one of 254 Texas counties that have inadequate resources to develop an integrated justice information system that can effectively share information with federal, state, county, and local governments.

Funding Issues

- Not enough funded positions to meet the optimal needs of the community
- Not able to pay competitive wages for more qualified personnel
- No funds to create and operate specialized programs
 - Drug task forces
 - Investigation follow-up
 - No specialized unit to respond to the manufacturing of illegal drugs

Training for Law Enforcement

- Training opportunities are hindered due to not having backfill, or funds to travel for training.
- Mandates for training coming from the state. Funding is needed to bring training in locally and to accommodate shift personnel.
 - Crisis management
 - Mental health issues
 - Victims assistance
 - HOTRAC offers courses in CISM

Specialized Equipment

- Radio communication interoperability
- Insufficient funds to purchase basic law enforcement equipment for smaller jurisdictions (i.e. vests, weapons, vehicles, etc.)
- Thermal imaging equipment
- Need for PPE and training in use.
- Body-worn cameras

Recommendations:

- Search for additional funding in the next grant period to allow for sufficient staff training.
- Ideally, it would be beneficial to have trainers within the departments. The need is to provide reimbursement to jurisdictions to send officer(s) to Train-The-Trainer courses.
- In some smaller areas, the need is great to update existing equipment and replace broken/outdated equipment
- Support and search for funding that will allow jurisdictions to purchase/replace basic equipment.
- Thermal Imaging- A non-invasive way of finding or locating missing persons or fugitives.
- Funding for qualified personnel, as well as competitive pay for existing employees to reduce turnover rate inside departments/agencies.
- Recommended that the county hire person(s) for community grant
- Writing to obtain grant funds. As well as exploring the possibilities of internship grant

3. Increase in Domestic Violence Calls

Domestic violence is the number one cause of injury to women in the U.S. – more than mugging, rapes, and auto accidents combined, according to the Surgeon General’s Workshop on Violence and Public Health. The escalation of violence in families has become a justice, public health, and economic problem for the families themselves as well as society as a whole. Domestic violence and violence between intimate partners is a problem for Falls County because the county lacks a cohesive plan for reducing the number of incidents and the resources to mediate the damage done to the victim’s families. Domestic violence crosses all racial, economic, social, and religious barriers. Violence between intimate partners continues to be a perpetual cycle leading victims to feelings of hopelessness and despair. When comparing the crime statistics from 2011 to 2012, Falls County saw a 94% increase in the number of family violence calls to law enforcement.

Gaps in the Community

The following issues require a concerted effort by all entities involved in the victim and criminal justice arena.

- Programs needed for outreach, local resources not easily accessible
- Lack of stable victim resource revenues threatens the ability of organizations to maintain core services
- Lack of resources and accessibility to resources for victims with physical handicaps
- Lack of support groups for male victims.
- Lack of standardized requirements for obtaining a protective order.
- Lack of training for judges granting protective orders.
- Lack of specialized services and awareness for elderly victims of domestic violence.
- Lack of non-English speaking resources for victims of domestic violence.
- Lack of awareness among minority groups, cultural groups, and immigrants.
- Lack of awareness of available resources in the community.
- Lack of transportation.
- Lack of affordable and accessible childcare.
- Lack of awareness of cultural differences and needs.
- Lack of comprehensive case management, job training, transportation, and job search services.

- Lack of seamless continuum of care.
- Need for improved collaborative relationships among service providers, law enforcement, and other local agencies

Recommendations:

- Establish safety zones in the county (for instance in the hospital) where victims can stay until victims services can come to transport them to shelter
- Need for CASA program
- Need for a BIPP program
- Local counselor needed for court-mandated counseling

Resources:

- Advocacy Center for Crime Victims and Children

5. Transportation

Transport of mental health individuals takes law enforcement out-of-pocket for hours. There is a current financial burden due to law enforcement continuing to experience long processing times for individuals that are considered mental health patients. The processing and travel time take some jurisdictions out of service for several hours.

Recommendations:

- Need for more personnel and vehicles
- Coordination among services
- Need for city transportation

Recommendations:

Interagency Cooperation

The Falls County Community Planning Team was very involved in the planning process. All agencies were proactive in their approach to identifying the needs of the communities and by putting their special interests aside they succeeded in developing a plan to aid in prioritizing and closing the identified gaps in the community.

The Planning Team shared the different services they offer, as well as, services offered by agencies and individuals that were unable to attend the planning meeting. The team met to make updates and corrections to the previous year's plan, and the working relationship was cooperative and productive.

Law enforcement, juvenile justice, victims services, emergency management, and social services groups agreed to continue to work together to reach the overall objectives of making the Falls County communities a safer environment, as well as, increasing awareness through intervention and prevention and education.

Long-Range Plan Development, Monitoring, and Evaluation

The Falls County Community Planning Team works in conjunction with other planning groups in the county to ensure a regular exchange of ideas. Individuals active in the planning process generally serve on many of these committees and share mutual concerns.

The Falls County Community Planning Team meets each biennium to review the plan and make necessary additions and deletions. Agency and community representatives may submit suggestions and changes via telephone and e-mail throughout the year to the Community Planning Coordinator. Annual updates of the Community Plan are circulated via e-mail with requests for comments, updates, and changes. Wherever possible, e-mail is used to reduce the need for meetings, printing, postage, etc. The most current plan is posted on the www.hotcog.org website.

The Community Planning Team intends to improve outcomes for Falls County families struggling with problems described in the plan's focus areas. Efforts are being made by many Falls County agencies and organizations to address problems with local funds, as well as, grant funds from multiple state and federal sources. To the extent that these funds are available, the Community Planning Team will continue to urge agencies to provide programming that addresses the outlined focus areas.
